Shooting at Simonstone Hall.

SIMONSTONE HALL was originally established as a shooting lodge in 1733, as part of the Lord Wharcliffe larger estate.

Just a few miles from nearby Hawes, in the centre of the Yorkshire Dales National Park, the surrounding area offers some of the best shooting in the UK.

In the centuries since its original construction the building has undergone numerous changes and extension, whilst always maintaining a strong connection with the local shooting estates and the beautiful surrounding landscape.

We very much look forward to welcoming you to Simonstone Hall; the perfect country house retreat, to rest, dine and unwind after a great day of shooting.

We endeavour to ensure that all of your shooting party requirements can be met, please contact us to discuss your requirements.
